

The Wisconsin No-Call law should remain undisturbed. Banks and credit card companies shouldn't be able to get an exception just because they had contact with a consumer within the last 18 months.